FAQ

Our program brings together platform workers, members of cooperatives, technologists, policymakers, researchers, disenchanted social media users, advocates and allies, and university students.

What if you don't speak English?
The language for Platform Co-op School is English, but for the 6 business courses, Spanish translation will be available.

Time commitment
The six one-day business courses meet Saturdays, 10:00 am to 12:00 pm and 1:00 pm to 3:00 pm Eastern Time (consult page for details)
All other events are held on Wednesdays 12:10 pm to 2:00 pm Eastern Time, with two exceptions (check seminars, assemblies, and theory jams)

What about your time zone?
The sessions for this event are predominantly held in Eastern Time (EST and later in March, EDT). There are, however, also two sessions that are scheduled for Australian and Indian time zones. All of the sessions are recorded for those who are unable to attend.

Event formats
The formats of our program reflect the needs and interests of these different groups and include "theory jam sessions", meaning short symposia and lectures, business trainings, community assemblies that allow for time to connect and have your voice heard, and traditional seminars.

Where do I register?
Theory Jam Sessions, Community Assemblies, and Seminars:
available for registration at a cost of $150 for 15 weeks in high-income countries and a $40 registration fee for the global majority.

- General public register at this link.l
  If you live in a low-income country, you'll automatically receive a discount when you enter the physical address associated with your credit card. Please note that the address must be located in a low-income country to qualify for the discount. With problems, please email pcc@newschool.edu
- New School undergraduate students follow this link
- New School graduate students click here
  Attention New School students: If you enroll in the Digital Democracy

Six one-day business courses
Follow this link to learn more and register. We highly recommend signing up for the package of all 6 business courses to take advantage of a significant discount. This could be a great option for cooperative groups looking to receive training. If you are ready to take that step, contact us.
